Furniture, flatware and more—here's how celebrities are feathering their nests

1. Andre Agassi and Steffi Graf netted a set of hand-painted ceramic dishes from Cinzia in Santa Monica (Vietri, $9–$45 per piece; 310-393-7751). 2. This cast-iron pot, bought for Harrison Ford by girlfriend Calista Flockhart, suits him to a tea ($90; at Le Palais des Thés, 310-271-7922). 3. Marisa Tomei's lacquered Tri-Ball wood lamp would look smart in the bedroom—or in any space that needs a cool, retro touch (Lika, $1,500; at Blackman Cruz, 310-657-9228). 4. Bring a bit of the casbah into your home, as Kate Hudson and Chris Robinson did, with this hand-carved Moroccan cedar daybed ($1,195; at Sheherazade Imports, 212-539-1771 or sheherazadenyc.com). 5. Gisele Bündchen proved she was a model of good taste when she purchased this elegant horn salad bowl and matching servers (bowl, $85, servers, $95; at Zipper Art Form + Function, 323-951-9190 or zippergifts.com).

Integrating exotic elements into your décor

Looks from distant shores, says Martyn Lawrence-Bullard, can be achieved in simple ways:

■ Consult books Lawrence-Bullard suggests reading coffee-table books for inspiration. Amazon.com alone lists at least 20 volumes on Moroccan style.

■ Copy motifs Trace patterns you like onto walls or inexpensive furniture, and fill in with colorful wall or fabric paint.

■ Shop import stores Search the Web for vendors that sell accessories and furnishings from your favorite countries.

Ornate glass lanterns provide an antique glow (red, $55, amber, $30; at Sheherazade, 212-539-1771).

Distinctive cutouts characterize a Moroccan-style side table from Garnet Hill ($98; 800-622-6216).

A traditional Berber Zemmour rug will floor you (6' x 9', $155; 612-729-4270 or moroccancaravan.com).
