

DÉCOR BY THE BOOK
The volumes that fill the wall of custom shelves in the living room, far right, provide the room's only vivid color; the unusually long library table was a gift from Martha, and the urns beneath it are nineteenth-century knife boxes. Reproductions of vintage New York City transit signs, above, bring words to the facing wall of the living room. The rich patterns of the rug and the ikat pillows, right, contrast with the pale, monochromatic walls and furniture and add a slightly bohemian feel to the room.
