

traditional home
10-2009

wick-ed

The only things better than the packaging of Martyn Lawrence-Bullard's candles are the scents.

Clockwise from top: Ottomania, Byzantine, and Spice Bazaar, $45 each (323/655-5080).

teapot or two

Above: Porcelain Ikat teapot from Sheherazade, $45

"This garden fits Kathryn perfectly—it's colorful, it's eclectic, and it's not too organized," jokes Block.

In the evenings, Kathryn and her family and friends light countless lanterns, enjoy the scents of the garden, and share a casual meal around the outdoor fireplace. A wooden trestle table surrounded by colorful (and comfy) canvas chairs easily accommodates 20 guests and is a necessity for Kathryn, who never knows who might show up just in time for dinner—be it couscous or macaroni and cheese.

